

Abstract

In this talk, we present a further investigation into the AGW criterion and the Local criterion. This leads us to propose the notion of an injective system for permutation polynomials over finite fields, and several fundamental properties of this novel concept are established as well. Additionally, we provide an example to illustrate this notion and its potential applications to the constructions of permutation polynomials.