

Abstract

Codes correcting limit-magnitude errors have important applications in flash memory. In this talk we will discuss maximal packing and minimal covering of residue class rings. In particular, we will focus on the discussion of small magnitude, such as two, three and four. As applications, the object set can be expressed as check vector of the corresponding check matrix in flash memory code.